

BlueBridge Networks LLC Attracts New President and CEO

BlueBridge Networks today announced the hiring of Jeff Levine as the new President & CEO

Cleveland, Ohio (PRWeb) January 27, 2009 -- Responding to the demands of its growing Data Center and customer base, BlueBridge Networks today announced the hiring of Jeff Levine as the new President & CEO. Mr. Levine joins BlueBridge Networks, bringing over 25 years of experience in the technology industry. During his 24 years with Agilysys Mr. Levine has been responsible for multiple areas of the Agilysys Corporate Operations including their IT organization. As a Senior Executive he was a member of the Executive Committee responsible for driving Strategy and Processes. Neil Adelman, CEO for the Company's first five years of operation, will assume the role of Chief Operations Officer.

Mr. Levine, President & CEO stated, "I am very pleased and excited to become part of the BlueBridge Team. This is a very dynamic company with fantastic growth potential. I look forward to the opportunity to combine my experience with BlueBridge's, so that we can continue to grow the organization and exceed our customer's expectations." Mr. Levine continued, "BlueBridge is providing a superior design for high performance computing environments, the staff and partner additions with infrastructure upgrades and certifications empower us to scale our services for a growing customer base.

BlueBridge recently completed a multi-year, $4M dollar reinvestment into facility and network infrastructure. These changes in management and responsibilities are designed to leverage the Company's improvements and accelerate revenue growth, while focusing on operational excellence and exceeding customer expectations.
